LOCAL BLACK HISTORY MAKERS CHRONICLE

RICHARD HATCHER

CAROLYN MOSBY

Congratulations to our Black History Makers
Mayor Scott L. King

THESE AFRICAN AMERICANS WERE

1st IN THEIR FIELD

Welcome to Millennium 2000! In the third year of our black history publication we are proud of our current line-up of our 'African American FIRSTS' alumni. Looking back on our history it is truly a wonder when our children can see whom the first black child born in Gary was. Or history in the making events when our city saw it's first black mayor, it's first black female deputy mayor and first black female judge. The city of Gary is rich with contributions from the African American community. We believe these 'firsts' serve as motivators for our children, who are the leaders of our future. We are always looking for more 'firsts' to add to our list. If you know of a 'first' please send their name(s) and accomplishments to us. We will be glad to add them to our list.

NO SACRIFICES – NO FREEDOM

LIKE FATHER LIKE SON

Former Councilman-at-Large and Current Councilman-at-Large

In our efforts to continue to accumulate 'firsts' for our annual black history magazine we are highlighting an astonishing accomplishment for a family in our community.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

Never in the history of Gary, Indiana for the office of Councilman-at-Large has there been a Father and Son to hold the same political office until now. On January 4, 2000, Kyle Allen, Sr. was sworn in as Gary City Councilman-at-Large, 32 years to the day that his father, Dozier T. Allen, Jr. had been sworn into the same position.

The Allen family had its beginning of being 'firsts' with the Late Dozier T. Allen, Sr. The late Mr. Allen a business owner was the first black man to own a retail gas service station in the city of Gary.

Trustee Allen followed in his father's footsteps and became an entrepreneur. But his attention to supply and demand went beyond the accomplishment of being a businessman. As an individual who studied the habits of consumers, he saw many that were unable to provide economically for their families. It was this drive that sparked the genesis of his life as a public servant.

Calumet Township Trustee Dozier T. Allen, Jr. and his son, Councilman-at-Large Kyle Allen, Sr.

Although Allen was effective in his role as Councilman-at-Large he wanted an opportunity to do even more for the economically deprived. It was then that he made a move to become Chief Deputy of the Calumet Township Trustee office and then to the position of Trustee.

The Trustee states that even though he enjoys his work and finds it highly rewarding, he never thought any of his children even considered a political career. Very proud of his son's entrance into the public official arena Allen stated: "Watching my children grow into their individual personas I never knew which one or if any of them would want to follow in my footsteps of living the life of a public servant. I am more than simply proud of Kyle I am inspired."

The office of Councilman-at-Large for the Allen family has always been viewed as an excellent entry into the political arena. Councilman-at-Large Allen also believes and agrees with his father that the office is one of honor. Both Allens are now holding political office, Kyle in his current position as Councilman-at-Large and Trustee Allen is and has been Trustee of Calumet Township for 30 years.

Arriving in the Millennium: Our history behind us, our future before us

The range, direction, and intent of vision for the African American in this new Millennium should begin as a blank "artist's canvas", void of past regrets, mistakes and remembrances that would mar our objectives. Leaving this collection of emotionally draining baggage in the past does not mean that we should forget the past. What it does mean is that we should learn the lessons, let go and move on.

Yes, it sounds simple and that's because it is. The energy it takes to continue to hold on to the past could be better used invested in devising a present and a future that improves the controlling factors that dictate our lives.

One such factor is how we conduct ourselves in the new information age that we are currently living in. Grab hold of the reigns of this powerful tool; garner the knowledge needed to utilize it to its fullest potential. For the first time in our history as Americans we have an opportunity to become true power brokers of our destiny through this medium. Our ancestors were stifled because of laws that did not permit the educating and the ownership of property for blacks. Their diligence for a better life has removed those stumbling blocks. Gone are the barriers that held our people in the grips of educational poverty. We have accessibility to education and information as never before. The wall of oppression is crumbling daily.

I refuse use this new "artist's canvas" to paint a bleak portrait of a Herculean mountain of continuing obstacles that will hopefully and eventually lead us into the promise of better conditions. Rather, the creation should be one of shining and inspirational brilliance. I also refuse to create this masterpiece alone. I invite you to grab a brush and help me paint with shades of hope, hues of effort, tints of cooperation, tones of agreement and together we can create a work of art that our ancestors and we can be proud of.

I challenge you to meditate on and fully analyze this statement and what it may mean to you:

"We may not be responsible for our beginnings, but as adults we are responsible for where we are and where & how we end".

Ponder on that; tell me your thoughts.
Welcome to the Millennium!
